

eHEALTH NURSING & MIDWIFERY

Amplifying the nursing and midwifery voice in digital health

Organiser HiNZ Nursing & Midwifery Informatics Special Interest Group

3.12.2024
HAMILTON

The rapidly changing landscape of digital health brings significant challenges to the nursing and midwifery workforce. Despite these challenges, nurses and midwives are often the drivers of digital innovation and digitally enabled clinical care. How can the voice of nurses and midwives as leaders in digital transformation be amplified?

KEYNOTE SPEAKER SUE ADAMS PhD, RN

Sue Adams is the co-leader (tangata Tiriti) of the national Nurse Practitioner (NP) and Enrolled Nurse (EN) workforce programme, University of Auckland. Her areas of expertise include development of the nursing workforce in primary health care, models of care and services to promote social justice and health equity. Sue's work and research critiques the institutional structures and policies governing our health system and workforce, with the intent of increasing the visibility of nursing and our contribution to the nation's health.

PANEL DISCUSSIONS

Two panels at the workshop will be exploring key topics. The first will explore the theme of amplifying the nursing and midwifery voice in digital health in the context of the current workforce crisis. The second will showcase successful digital solutions implemented in Aotearoa, exploring the challenges and opportunities of digital transformation within the workplace.

KEY QUESTIONS TO EXPLORE

The future is digital

How does nursing and midwifery training ensure the future workforce is digitally ready in a rapidly changing digital environment?

Walking the talk

How do we enact Te Tiriti in digital health?

Amplifying the nursing and midwifery voice

As the largest single clinical workforce, how does nursing and midwifery ensure they are acknowledged as a key driver and enabler of digital transformation?

"Just a nurse/Just a midwife"

Are all nurses and midwives digital health nurses and midwives?

Turning plans in to practice

How do we ensure digital solutions actually work in clinical practice?

The day will also include the NMI Annual General Meeting and the awarding of the Robyn Carr Cup for excellence in nursing and midwifery informatics.
